

Quests

Welcome Scientists! Proper documentation is the foundation of good science! To that end, your first quest will be to create a cool sign with your team name from materials around your house. Be creative, this is for posterity! Then take a photo of you and your team members (if you have any--going solo is encouraged as well!) with the sign. If you are socially distanced from your teammates, find some creative way to include everyone into one image--a Zoom call screenshot, Photoshop, wacky cardboard-cutout drawings, MS-Paint, whatever. Then upload the image from your team page.

One of our Scientists will review your submission (be kind to them, they're volunteers) and award you an ability point which you can use to occupy your first block on the map of Black Rock City. Then you'll get three impact factor points, which is like the "strength" of your abilities. Solving more quests and puzzles will net you more action points, which you can use to gain new abilities, or to use those abilities.

Note that we may post your image on our site or to Facebook or that sort of thing. If you would not like us to share it with others, just email us or write "Private please!" in the image.

